

TRAIN AS A COMMUNITY HEALTH WORKER

AND

REAP THE BENEFITS OF MAKING A SIGNIFICANT
DIFFERENCE IN YOUR LIFE AND THE LIVES OF OTHERS

Community Health Workers (CHW) have emerged as one of the most vital actors in healthcare delivery today.

- CHWs act as intermediaries between the community and healthcare and social and human service systems in order to ensure that community members are able to access services that meet their needs.
- CHWs responsibilities include, but not limited to outreach, community education, patient advocacy, and informal coaching.

Registration for Spring 2018 classes are open

For further information:

Prince George's Community College – Work Force Development
Ms. Adrienne Crowell – 301 546 0879 crowelam@pgcc.edu

Bettye Muwwakkil- 240 264 0878 bettye@awpli.org